Washington Post article:

Extreme flooding has decimated communities in Pakistan and killed more than 1,000 people, many of them children. Millions more have been displaced, their homes destroyed. Crops have been ravaged, heightening concerns of malnutrition.

As the crisis continues to unfold, officials have called on the international community for aid, estimating it may cost billions of dollars to recover from the damage.

Here are some organizations you can donate to:

ISLAMIC RELIEF

Islamic Relief has been operating in Pakistan since 1992. The organization is focused on providing food aid, access to clean water and other humanitarian supplies.

APPNA

As you might have heard the news about unprecedented heavy rains causing devastating flooding across various areas of the Pakistan. Most of the areas of Baluchistan, Karachi and South Punjab are already under water. Hundreds of lives are already lost and many many more affected families are in dire need of shelters, supplies and food as well as outbreak of water born diseases needing injectable antibiotics which are in short supply. Heavy rains have also started in Sindh, Punjab and KPK, resulting in severe widespread flooding in those areas too.

Our heartfelt gratitude to our donors for generous participation in helping our communities.
